Joomla is an Open Source content management system that allows people to manage their websites with noknowledge of HTML. It comes prepacked with several extensions and useful ad-ons.

The Jabode Horoscope Extension is basically an add on to Joomla. It can be installed in a breeze through the administrative portion of Joomla. Basically its a one click install if you already have Joomla. Continue reading for some useful links and tips to get started. Then check out the Jabode Horoscope Extension

One great tool to get started with Joomla is called the Joomla Stand Alone server. Its simple to use, install it the same way you install any windows XP program and it can be working in minutes. It can be found here:

Bascially it contains everything you need to run a local installation of Joomla. The local part here is important! this site isnt visible to the whole world, it is more to try Joomla out, and then I use it as a test bed for all my websites. It's a lot quicker since queries don't need to be sent across the interenet.
